2. Citations and explanations:

Claims 1-40 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(2) because the prior art, taken singly, does not teach or fairly suggest the invention as claimed.

Claims 1-11 and 17-26 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(3) because the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest a portable fire hydrant comprising a hydraulic cylinder coupled to a hydrant body and a water engagement mechanism coupled to the hydrant body, the mechanism comprising at least one locking member cooperating with the actuator to move to a position engaging a water main component.

Claims 12-16 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(3) because the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest a portable fire hydrant comprising a bladder seal radially distensible from a hydrant body for creating a water-tight seal between the hydrant and a water main component.

Claims 27-33 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(3) because the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest a portable fire hydrant system comprising an electronic signaling device proximate an access above ground to a water main pipe disposed underground and configured for receiving a portable fire hydrant.

Claims 34-39 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(3) because the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest a portable fire hydrant system comprising a cover spanning access above ground to a water main pipe disposed underground and configured for receiving a portable fire hydrant, the cover including a locking mechanism that can be electronically or magnetically deactivated.
